Subject: Indian Myna

[REDACTED]

Good morning

I would like to know if there is anything being done about the Indian Myna birds. These birds are not native to Australia, are aggressive towards those that are. They take over and cause harm to possums. They also harass other birds displacing them from their natural environments. It seems their populations are increasing while the native population is going the other way. I believe it is time to take a positive action against the Myna before our native population goes towards extinction

Regards
