

From: L & K Muirhead
Sent: Thursday, 15 October 2009 10:45 PM
To: Felicity Calvert
Subject: Submission regarding red gum forests

Dear Sir or Madam

Now is the time to be increasing forest size not reducing it. Any process which helps lock up carbon (such as planting appropriate trees and increasing forest size) is going to help reduce the risk of dangerous climate change and must be perused. Environmental flows must be increased to preserve the health of the forests and they must be jointly and transparently managed by those interested in the long term future of the forests and the planet.

Regards
Lauriston Muirhead