

31/8/09

Forest Assessment
Natural Resource Commission

RE: River Red Gum Assessment

Dear Sir Madam,

My name is Nathan Tremain and I am a professional commercial pilot working with a major Australian company. I write my professional career status to demonstrate that all peoples across the board in Australia seek to preserve and protect our fragile environment and flora and fauna.

My ultimate desire is that industries such as the one I work in continuously become more 'green' and environmentally responsible. The aviation industry is at the forefront of many new and exciting green technologies. I would like to see all governments (worldwide) including our own seek to prove the same belief and approach.

Preserving forests such as the River Red Gum is a perfect example of acting environmentally responsibly. The River Red Gum Forest has many environmentally significant values as stated in Ramsar Convention.

I know many professionals and people across a diverse range in Australia share my beliefs and are also changing towards these ideas.

I urge you to make this area of Forest into National Park as part of your current assessment.

Kind regards,
Nathan Tremain